The Democracy of the North, from respec the sentiment of the South, agreed that the power of Congress against slavery in the Terories should not be exercised. Mr. Seward's Speech. The New York Senator, on the 29th of February, presented the memorial of the Legisla-ture of Kausas, praying to be admitted as a State, and read to the Senate a speech ou slavery, which no doubt was prepared with the utmost care and labor. Senator Seward is un-questionably a man of high cultivation and talents. He is a representative man, and the peerless leader of the Republican party. The disagreeable, di positions are insolud. The disagreeable, dis-cordant and alicinating consequences, which must ettend the consummation of his theories, are carefully kept out of view, and there is a sinister and an occult ultimate purpose, which is cunningly veiled. In the appellation of other.

We don't see how a man of common sense need be told so palpable a truth as that. The man South who doesn't know it, must be distressingly ignorant of the public sentiment of the country. The people of the free States, of course, prefer free State institutions and from the state of t ree States labor States, and the slave States States there are certainly much the largest accumulations of capital. The free States own agricultural capital. The capitalists in the free States invest in merchandise, in ships, in factories, in rulroads, in banks, or in lands and flocks or herds, while in the slave States and nocks or acrus, while in the slave States in the Southern extreme of the Union, the sargar, cotton and rice planter invests in land and slaves; in other portions, in tobacce, grain, grass and animals. Each capitalist, whether in free or slave State, invests in such manner as taste, skill, or interest, may dictate. Whether free or slave labor be more profitable in a doubtful prediction in such states. that its immense population, wealth, and eapi-tal, and the imputed sluggish progress of the Southern States, is owing to free labor in the former and slave labor in the latter. In planting States, of which rice, sugar and cotton are the staples, tree labor sickens and dies, while the slave is in his meridian of health and fecundity; and if this was not so, free labor would strike for ruinous wages in the critical periods of cotton-picking and sugar-boiling. Why then are the slave States called capital States, and the free States labor States' It is hoped that the Senator does not mean to inti mate to free labor which can vote, that the capitalist may be robbel of his just rights, or that slave labor should throw off its oppression He surely would not have it understool tha the dogs of ugrarian or sorvile war. For the present we pass over this manner of stating the Senator's position, and the sequel will ben-ter explain his drift and intents.

Senator Seward asserts "that wherever utiless slave exists, be he Caucasian, Ameri can, Malay, or Atrican, he is the subject of tw distinct and opposite ideas—one that he wrongfully, the other that he is rightfully, slave." He proceeds to discuss this opposition former without limitation, and in the latter t some extent-t'e doctrine of John Milton, th leny that all men were born naturally free eing the image and semblance of God him being the image and sensitive all creatures born to and were privileged above all creatures born to command and not to obey." He further states that our forefathers, "although they had inhis anti-slavery theory. It is not intended to discuss these subjects of controversy, which have become stale and hreadbare. Is it a fact that the African slave that all men are created equal, and have the malienable right to life, liberty, and the pur-enit of happiness, apply to the African slave? Is property in slaves invalidated by that clause in the Declaration of Independence. Is the sentiment of John Milton, uttered in Eugland, where there were no African slaves, applicable to the negro slave? Did John Milton mean t assert that the African slave, being created in he image of God, was born to command and not to obey? Wus not African slavery and the slave trade authorised by the laws of England while Milton lived, as cotemporary and secre evolutionary ancestors generally condemn davory, and hope for its discontinuance? Were not all the colonies at the Declaration of independence slave colonies? and were not all property, or if a suspiciou had been enter-tained that Congress had the power to under-

From the year 1776 up to 1820, no respect-ble statesman would have ventured to answer hose questions but with one undivided voice ng to the Constitution or the laws of thed. The slave States have been notoriously attacked in their equality as States, and in the security and possession of their property. Mr. Seward was trained and educated in the school of Daniel Webster, the great Constitutional expounder. Daniel Webster did not thus underrate and despise the judicial delenies boldly that any slave owner has the right to carry his slave property into the Teritories, and that slavery so only lawful in the states where it exists. That the North assailed the South in despoiling her of North a santed the South in despoiling her of slave property, and in violating the fugitive slave law, no fair-minded arbiter could have a rational doubt. It is a fact of weekly, if not haily occurrence in this S ate, that our people are despoiled of property of the value of $1,om, and there is scarcely an instance in which the pursuit for reclamation of a fugitive slave has resulted otherwise than in insult or violence, and expense and loss. Mr. Seward finds in his path the judgment of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Dred Scott case, diametrically condemning all f the positions against slave property and th ights of the slave States, and he disposes of these words:

"In this new and extreme position the Dem ocratic party now masks itself behind the bat-tery of the Supreme Court, as if it were possi-bly a true construction of the Constitution that should be assumed and exercised by a cour which can only take cognizance of the grea question collaierally, in a private action be-tween individuals; and which action the Con-stitution will not suffer the court to entertain, if it involves twenty dollars of moncy, without a the overruling intervention of a jury of twelve good and lawful men of the neighborhood where the litigation arises. President.

The trial of an impeachment of the President before the Senate, on charges preferred and prosecuted against him by the House of Representatives, would be an imposing spectacle for the world. In the result, not only his removal from the Presidential office would be involved, but what is of infinitely greater importance to himself, his charac er, both in the eyes of the present and future generations might possibly be tarnished. The disgrace cast upon him would, in some degree, be recast upon him would, in some degree, be reflected upon the character of the American people who elected him. Hence the precau tions adopted by the Constitution to secure a fair trial. On such a trial it declares that the Chief Justice ahall preside. This was, doubt-less, because the framers of the Constitution believed it to be possible that the Vice President might be biased by the fact that in case of the removal of the President from office,

After a delay which has afforded me ample time for reflection, and after much and careful deliberation, I find myself constrained by an imperious sense of duly, as a co-ordinal branch of the Federal Government, to protes branch of the Federal Government, to protest against the first two clauses of the first reso tion adopted by the House of Representative on the 5th inst., and published in the Congressional Globe on the succeeding day.

The cl. uses are in the following words, first, hat a committee of five members be appointed by the Speaker, for the purpose of investigating whether the President of the United States, of any officer of the Government, has by money, patronage, or other improper means, sought to influence the passage of any law appertaining to the rights of any State or Territory; and, second, also to inquire into and investigate whether any officer or officers of the Government, have by combination, or otherwise, attempted to prevent or defeat the execution of any law or laws now upon the statute book; or whether the President has failed or retused to compel the execution of any law thereof.

I confine myself exclusively to these two cranches of the resolution, because the por-ions of it which follow relate to alleged abuses in the postoffice, navy yards, public buildings and other public works of the United States. In such cases inquiries are highly proper in themselves, and belong equally to the Senate and House, as incident to their legislative duty and provide appropriate legislative remedies for any abuses which may be asserted.

Although the terms of the latter portion of the resolution are extremely vague and gen-eral, yet my sole purpose in adverting to them at present, is to make the broad line of dis tinction between the accusatory and remedia clauses of this resolution.

It is solely in reference to the first, or impeaching power, that I propose to make a few

And what is the unture of the investigation which his resolution proposes to institute? It is as vague and general as the English lauguage affords words to make it. The committee is to impaire, not into any specific charges, but whether the President has by money or patronage, or other improve means, sought to but whether the President has by money or patronage, or other improper means, sought to influence, uot the action of any individual member or members of Congress, but the action of the entire body of Congress, but the action of the entire body of Congress it elf, or any committee thereof.

The President might have had some gleaming of the nature of the offense to be investigated, had his accusers pointed to the act or acts of Congress which he sought to pass or defeat by the employment of money, patronage, or other improper means, but the accusation is bounded by no such limits. It extends to the whole circle of Legislation, to interference for or against the passage of any law, appertaining to the rights of any State or Territory. What laws do not appertain to the rence for or against a pertain to the rights of any State or Territory. What laws do not appertain to the rights of some State or Territory' and what law or laws has the President failed to exelaw or laws has the President failed to exemple the result of the town of Sonora, which is two miles of the town of Sonora, which is two miles of the town of Sonora, which is two miles of the town of Sonora, which is thought to be extensive, and of a quality closely resembling cannel coal.

The news from the Washoe mines continues the same character as heretofore, and the law or laws has the President failed to execute? These might easily have been pointed ont, had any such existed. Had Mr. Lawlesa asked an inquiry to be made by the Housa, whether Judge Peck, in general terms, had not violated his judicial duty, without specifying any particular act, I do not believe there would have been a single vote in that body in favor of the inquiry. Since the time of the Star Chamber of general warrants there have been no such proceedings in England. The House of Representatives, the high impeaching power of the country, without consenting to hear a word of explanation, have indorsed this accussion against the President, and this accusation against the President, and made it their own act. They even refuse to permit a member to inquire of the President's accuser what the specific charges against him are.

Thus, in this preliminary accusation of high crimes and misdemeanors against a co-ordidinate branch of the Government, under the impeaching power, the House refused to hear a single suggestion, even, as to the correct

Shall the President alone be deprived of the protection of these great principles which prevail in every land where array of liberty penetrates the gloom of despotism? Shall the Executive alone be deprived of the rights which all his fellow-citizens enjoy? The whole proceedings against him, justify the fears of those wise and great men, who, before the Constitution wise and great men, who, before the Constitu-tion was adopted by the States, apprehended that the tendancy of the Government was to the aggrandizement of the Legislature at the aggrandizement of the Legislature at the

A a time when there is great fear that the stock of dry lumber, sash, doors, blinds, &c., will fall short, owing to the vast amount of improvements in Louisville, it will be intereeting to the public to know that Alexander, Ellia & Co., have enlarged their factory and have now on hand several million of dry lum-ber. Call at their office on Main street, namly opposite the Galt House, or at their factory on Fulton, above Preston street.

TRUNKS .- Among the places worthy of the ttention of the visitors to Louisville at the resent time, is the great trunk manufactory and emporium of J. H. McCleary, on the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets. His large manufactory enables him to supply trunks, valies, bonnet and hat boxes, carpet bags, bureau trunks, etc., of the very best quality, at unpre-edented low prices. All of Mr. McCleary's work is beautiful as well as durable goods. Give him a call.

Look to Your Interests. The people are aware that D. O'Hare, No. 427 Main street, is the oldest, largest and most experienced manufacturer of trunks and simi-

Whoever wants to travel, whether with a small carpet-bag or a mammoth trunk, need go no further than to the Great Western Trunk Factory of Mr. O'Hare.

His manufactory is a credit to Louisville, and should meet with extensive patronage. Hundreds of workmen are employed, and thousands of dellars weekly disbursed. As a matter of thome pride, and to subserve economy, pur chasers will consult their best interests in pur chasing of Mr. O'Hare. BARRY'S TRICOPHEROUS is the best and

LOOK AT THE AUTHORITY. XOKOWO, IND., AUX 16, 1830. DR ROBACK -- Dear Sir: It is due to you and the public, more especially the afflicted, to cay that I have given your invaluable Scandinavian Blood Purifier a fair trial in a numb er of cases of diseases arising from unhealthy blood, in all of which it has exceeded my expectations, and comes fully up to its recommendations. I do, therefore, with pleasure, recommend it to all the afflicted whose disease indicates a remedy of that description.
